Cotton a Curse.

We begin to think that cotton is a nuisance and ought to be abated. It has brought us into a world of trouble, the end of which we have not seen. If we had not been a cotton producing people, we should probably have been permitted to have seceded peaceably, and no one would have thought us worth fighting for. But, unfortunately for us, we could not, like that small animal pursued by hunters for the rare perfume it carries with it, cast off cotton and thus save ourselves. If we could have got rid of cotton and slavery, we should have removed that incentive which now actuates the hordes of Federal plunderers who seem to regard the South as the golden goose to be killed for her eggs. Without cotton we should not have had Union Generals liberating slaves with one hand and stealing the products of their labor with the other. Nor would we now have had a Radical conspiracy striving through tariffs and all kinds of plunder schemes to oppress Southern whites just in proportion as they hypocritically profess to benefit Southern blacks.

The disposition recently manifested by Congress, and not yet abandoned, to impose the heaviest burdens of taxation on an impoverished section, should begin to open the eyes of our people as to the means to meet this extortionate spirit. There are some advantages in being poor, and if some future tax upon cotton shall diminish its production, though we shall be a poorer people, yet we shall to a much greater extent than now be exempt from spoliation and persecution. There are two very good reasons why cotton should continually decrease in cultivation: first, the worthlessness of free negroes in the cotton-growing States as reliable laborers; secondly, the disposition to tax cotton to death, which the Congress, that has just adjourned, exhibited.

Let us try very little cotton crops for a year or two. We are confident it will have a very wholesome influence in national politics. We have enough provocation for the experiment. We have very urgent needs for breadstuffs, and we hold that it is more necessary to feed a man than to clothe him. Wheat and corn bring very remunerative prices, and as we are nearer to the sea than the grain-growing States of the North, we can afford better to raise them for exportation. If our Northern neighbors want cotton let them come down South and enter into partnership with the Freedmen's Bureau in its cultivation. By this means we shall receive their labor and capital, and when they get here they will discard "humanity" and "philanthropy," and make Cuffy work as he never did.—Richmond Times.

By all means, quit raising cotton and live in sheer idleness. In this way you will probably manage to starve quite as soon as you succeed in reducing the "Radicals" to penury and beggary.

NOT "ARM-AND-ARM," BUT HAND AND HEART.—James E. Murdoch, the tragedian—and soldier as well as actor—well and favorably known in this State, made a speech at the Pittsburg Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, from which we make the following extract:

"While disappointed statesmen and political tools, led by a man deaf to the promptings of faith and national justice, combine with impoverished and desperate agents of the rebel cause to overthrow the Government, every true man should hold himself a minute-man for the country's call. How can a people, willing to be directed by the pillar and cloud of a righteous Providence, fail to see a new duty in the shaping of public affairs? The soldiers on the battle-field, the sailor on his deck, the people at their homes, have tried the rebel cause, and the universal verdict is, 'Guilty, and recommended to mercy.' [Cheers.] We say: 'Conform to the circumstances of your defeat! Give us, by your choice of representatives, some guaranty of your disposition to keep the peace in future, and we will regard you no longer as enemies, but as friends restored and received into the national family. We do not care to walk arm and arm with you into the reconstruction. Go hand and heart with us, or not at all. [Cheers.] Politeness and ceremony may suit you—we want truthful fellowship in our political alliance, if we fail to secure it in social life.' [Renewed applause.]

In short, if Southern rebels and Northern sympathisers will not accept the proffers of peace made by the legitimate majority, against whom the one made open and the other secret and more despicable warfare; if terms conceived in a spirit of justice and tendered in good faith are not acceptable; if factious resistance to the Acts of Congress is still persisted in, then must the loyal States assert their rights once more, fling their banner to the breeze, and, rally to the citadel, stand ready to repel the foe in whatever form he may come, however he may be supported. [Cheers.]

May God, in his infinite mercy, avert from this people the horrors of a renewed war; but 'forewarned is forearmed.' [Applause.] Our country's flag has been set as a signal of hope to the world, promising freedom, equality and equal justice to the oppressed who seek the protection of its sheltering folds. Those to whom it is a promise only must be confirmed to their love and confidence. For the perfected result we must labor in the spirit of the men of '76, the men of 1812 and 1814, and of the brave boys in blue who have made the last and greatest sacrifice, during the war of the rebellion. To this common cause of freedom and humanity, let us pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honors." [Great cheers.]

LINCOLN AND BAKER.—One of Mr. Lincoln's private secretaries gives the following account of the reception of the news of the disaster at Ball's Bluff at the White House:

The evening when the news came in was a dark one at the White House. General McClellan came over at once, puzzled, astonished, and not a little "stampeded." I did not witness the meeting between him and the President, but was told it was mournful enough. The central figure of that disaster was Colonel Baker. The first I ever heard of the gallant Senator was in reading his wonderfully eloquent and pathetic address at the funeral of the murdered Broderick, and afterward he seemed to me the handsomest man in the Senate. I well remember his first appearance at Mr. Lincoln's office in uniform, after he raised his regiment. He was an exceedingly striking figure, with his ample white hair, flashing eyes and graceful person. The President loved him like a brother, and mourned his untimely death bitterly. All that evening, until late in the night, he paced up and down his room, outwardly, at least, more overcome than I ever saw him afterward. His warm heart was yet to receive many wounds before the end came, but I always thought that, except the death of "little Willie," the loss of Colonel Baker touched him most deeply of all.

ADMIRAL FARRAGUT.—A Washington dispatch of the 30th ult., says:

The following significant letter from Admiral Farragut was in reply to an invitation to attend the Pittsburg Convention:

NEW YORK, September 24, 1866.

To Edwin Dudley, Chairman Committee of the Union League, Pittsburg—Sir: Your invitation to be present at a National Convention of soldiers and sailors to be held at Pittsburg on the 25th inst., has just been received. Even if disposed to accept, the time is too little, and on principle I am opposed to taking an active part in political assemblies, and therefore, with thanks to your self for the pleasant tone of your letter, I beg to decline the invitation.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,
D. G. FARRAGUT, Admiral.

General Alfred Dockery is the Union candidate for Governor of North Carolina. He was an eminent Whig of other days, and chosen as such in 1845.

Shall the Voters of the North have equal show with the Voters of the South?

[From the New York Tribune, September 28th.]

One of the great questions to be decided at the Congressional elections this fall is whether the voters of the North shall obtain equal rights with the voters of the South, or whether they are satisfied that the abolition of slavery shall even increase the superior rights which the voters of the Southern States have thus far enjoyed under the Constitution. The matter is so plain that properly presented it cannot fail to be understood by the dullest intellect.

According to the law of the 23d of May, 1850, it was enacted that the number of Representatives in Congress should be 233; that the representative population [which means the whole number of free persons, excluding Indians not taxed, with the addition of three-fifths of all other persons] determined by the census of that year and thereafter should be divided by said number 233, and that the quotient so found should be the ratio of representation for the several States. The ratio thus ascertained under the census of 1860 was 124,183, and upon this basis the 233 Representatives were apportioned among the States. The number was, however, increased by the Act of March 4, 1862, from 233 to 241, by allowing one additional Representative to each of the following States: Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont. According to this apportionment, the Northern and Southern States had the following number of Congressmen:

NORTHERN STATES.

California	3	New Hampshire	3
Connecticut	4	New Jersey	5
Illinois	14	New York	31
Indiana	11	Ohio	19
Iowa	6	Oregon	1
Kansas	1	Pennsylvania	24
Maine	5	Rhode Island	2
Massachusetts	10	Vermont	3
Michigan	6	Wisconsin	6
Minnesota	2
Total			156

SOUTHERN STATES.

Alabama	6	Mississippi	5
Arkansas	3	Missouri	9
Delaware	1	North Carolina	7
Florida	1	South Carolina	4
Georgia	7	Tennessee	8
Kentucky	9	Texas	4
Louisiana	5	The Virginias	11
Maryland	5
Total			85

Now that slavery is abolished, the three-fifths rule has, of course, to cease, and the new apportionment has either to be made upon the voting (white) population, as the Congressional amendment provides, or upon the total population, as will be the case if the amendment is rejected and the Johnson party have a majority in the next Congress. Should the amendment not be adopted, and the 241 members, provided for by the Act of 1862, divided among the States according to their total population, the South would gain nine members and the North would lose nine. The ratio of representation in this case would be 129,225, and the representation of the Northern and Southern States in Congress would be as follows:

NORTHERN STATES.

California	3	New Hampshire	3
Connecticut	4	New Jersey	5
Illinois	13	New York	29
Indiana	10	Ohio	18
Iowa	5	Oregon	1
Kansas	1	Pennsylvania	22
Maine	5	Rhode Island	2
Massachusetts	9	Vermont	3
Michigan	6	Wisconsin	6
Minnesota	2
Total			147

SOUTHERN STATES.

Alabama	7	Mississippi	6
Arkansas	3	Missouri	9
Delaware	1	North Carolina	8
Florida	1	South Carolina	5
Georgia	8	Tennessee	9
Kentucky	9	Texas	5
Louisiana	6	The Virginias	12
Maryland	5
Total			94

It will be seen that in this case the States of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts and Ohio would each lose one, and the States of New York and Pennsylvania each two. On the other hand the States of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia would each gain one. As the total voting population of the Northern States is 18,652,776, and of the Southern States 8,026,700, this would give in the Northern States one member for a voting population of 126,889, and in the Southern States one member for a voting population of 85,496. Those, therefore, who oppose the amendment, or who at the approaching election vote for Congressmen of the Johnson party, thereby vote that a voting population of 126,889 in the North shall have as much power as 85,496 Southerners, the majority of whom are unrepentant rebels.

The Constitutional amendment upon which the admission of the Southern States to Congress is made dependent, and with it the Republican party, insists that a voter in the Northern States shall count as much as in the Southern States. If, accordingly, the voting population be made the basis of representation, the ratio of representation would be 111,685, and the Northern and Southern States entitled to the following number of Congressmen:

NORTHERN STATES.

California	7	New Hampshire	3
Connecticut	4	New Jersey	6
Illinois	15	New York	35
Indiana	11	Ohio	19
Iowa	6	Oregon	1
Kansas	1	Pennsylvania	24
Maine	6	Rhode Island	2
Massachusetts	12	Vermont	3
Michigan	7	Wisconsin	7
Minnesota	2
Total			171

SOUTHERN STATES.

Alabama	4	Mississippi	2
Arkansas	3	Missouri	9
Delaware	1	North Carolina	5
Florida	1	South Carolina	2
Georgia	5	Tennessee	7
Kentucky	8	Texas	4
Louisiana	4	The Virginias	9
Maryland	5
Total			70

It will be seen that in this case Illinois, Maine, Michigan, New Jersey and Wisconsin will gain one representative each, Massachusetts two and New York four.

Men of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin—let it be well understood by every voter in your State that the Republican Congressional ticket means equal political rights for the voters North and South, and that the ticket of the Democrats and the Johnson party means superior rights of the Southern voters. Every man who votes the opposition ticket thereby consents to have lesser rights than a voter in the Southern State; while every supporter of the Republican ticket insists that the Union men of the North shall have at least equal rights with the late rebels. Is it possible that the issue between two such tickets is doubtful?

A DISHONEST PAYMASTER.—The individual mentioned in the following paragraph will be remembered as having been stationed in the Military District of Oregon some time ago:

Charges have been preferred against Paymaster Thomas M. Winston of the regular army, who was lately in charge of the Department of the Gulf, of having dishonestly appropriated to his own use a very large amount of coupons attached to 7-30 bonds, by cutting them off previous to paying the amount to the troops of his district. The paymaster is charged with holding the bonds back until the January interest accrued, distributing them throughout several remote States minus the coupon adjuncts, and feloniously retaining the latter for his own private use. The sum involved is not definitely known, but is at least $17,000. Winston has been superceded until the charges against him shall have been investigated

Education in Oregon.

The Statesman of this week has an article on the Willamette University which justly sets forth the merits of that institution of learning, and pays a deserved tribute to the energy and perseverance of its founders. "Originating at an early day as a Mission School for Indians, it was finally merged into the present establishment, and, advancing with a sure and steady increase, has now assumed a dominant position among kindred institutions on the coast, surpassed by none in admirable facilities for obtaining a liberal education. Always supplied with a talented and capable Faculty, and a wise and energetic management, it has not failed to justify the anticipations of the many who have sought its halls for instruction." The large and permanent structure intended for a college building, which has been in process of erection for some time past, is almost completed, and will be ready for occupation by the commencement of the next term. A generous endowment—how large we are not informed, but understood to be considerable enough for the present needs of the University—was secured some time ago; and the institution is now rising to a position which promises to realize the hopes and aims of its founders and of those who have labored and struggled through long years for its success.

Ten or twelve years ago there was an effort to establish colleges at several different places in Oregon. Almost every village was ambitious to be known as the seat of a celebrated institution of learning. This ambition had its foundation more in the hope of the country's future growth and its consequent ability to sustain all these incipient colleges, than in the idea that they were all wanted at that time to promote the cause of education. Of all these institutions, only two survive whose prospects for future success and usefulness now meet the early expectations of their founders and patrons. One of these is the Willamette University at Salem, to which reference is made above; and the other is Pacific University at Forest Grove, to which we shall now devote a brief paragraph.

Pacific University, like its sister institution at Salem, has had a hard struggle and is now just being established on a firm basis. Already it has an endowment fund of $20,000, and its President, Dr. Marsh, is now at the East making efforts to secure a larger sum.—His purpose is to increase the endowment to $50,000 or $75,000; and the success he has met thus far justifies the belief that the object of his visit to the East will, within a year, be fully attained. At present there are three accomplished and experienced Professors in the institution. These gentlemen are all known as able instructors, and are located permanently there. We hear good reports of the progress making in the institution since the collegiate year began. The graduating class last year consisted of four young gentlemen, and the class of the year now in progress will consist of about the same number. We learn that there are twenty or twenty-five students now in the University who are engaged in the regular course of study—a small number it is true, when compared with the colleges of the East, but an encouraging number for a college in Oregon. A large new building was erected last year, which with those formerly built, affords ample room for all purposes. Decidedly the largest and best library in Oregon belongs to the Pacific University. It is the intention of those who have the management of the institution to make the course of instruction liberal and thorough. The groundwork is laid at Forest Grove for a college that will at no distant day be an ornament to the State. The effort will not fail. If there ever was any danger of failure, that danger is over. The hopes of those who have labored so long to establish this institution of learning, are advancing to their fulfillment and fruition.

But common schools are or should be the principal agencies in the system of education; and common schools in Oregon are not what they should be. We do not now speak of the common schools in the principal towns—for they are generally well conducted—but of the schools which are to be seen in almost every part of the State, outside of the towns. The school houses for the most part are wretched hovels unfit to be tenanted, even for a few hours each day, by human beings. Many of the teachers employed are unqualified for the profession they have assumed. Not a few Oregon schools bear a resemblance in many respects to the academy of the celebrated Professor Wackford Squeers. Children attend year after year without making the least progress in learning. Science and tact are required in teaching, and of this fact both this class of teachers and their employers seem to be wholly ignorant. The consequence of their wretched mode of unskilled teaching is to educate children into utter stupidity, and to disqualify them for receiving proper instruction. Besides, most of our schools are not supplied with the proper means and appliances for the education of children and youth. It is a shame in these days for a child to be sent to school with an old unattractive spelling book, and be compelled to go through the process of being "educated," that was in vogue in the backwoods twenty or thirty years ago. Suitable books, maps, globes and illustrative apparatus in general, sufficient for all the purposes of a common school, are easily obtained for a small outlay of money, and the patrons of a school cannot afford to let it go without them.

Many patrons of schools have narrow ideas of education. They try everything by the rule of utility, and make themselves the judges of that rule. There are yet many who find it difficult to understand that reform in the mode of instruction is needed, or that there can be the slightest use in many of the varieties and branches of learning taught in modern schools. They argue against this study and that, and protest there is no need of them,—forgetting that every variety of knowledge is important, and that none can be useless. If we begin to throw away learning in this way, where shall we stop? Who can undertake to say what is useful and what is not? If we proceed on this idea we shall soon be brought to say with regard to every variety of knowledge:

> * * * O reason not the need.
> The basest slave is in the poorest thing superfluous;
> Allow not nature more than nature needs,
> Man's life is cheap as beast's.

If there is such a thing as useless knowledge, the wisest men have not informed us what it is. One species of knowledge is a help to every other, for "all are but parts of one stupendous whole." True, there are some things which all must know; but there is nothing which may not with profit be known. We have this definition out of Milton:

> * * * not to know that which is remote
> From use obscure and subtle, but to know
> That which before us lies in daily life
> Is the prime wisdom;——

but Milton himself would have had difficulty in drawing the line he here alludes to. He himself disdained no learning as "remote from use"; as is evidenced by his having acquired all the knowledge that had been discovered up to his day, and by his rendering it all of use in the composition of those works which instruct and delight the world.

It makes little difference what branch of knowledge one pursues, so he pursues it with diligence. Proficiency in the most recondite and apparently useless of all parts of learning is desirable and important, and the world is indebted for its progress in science and art to the industry of men who have pursued branches of study which the patrons of utility called, and still call, needless and unprofitable.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO NOVEMBER 1.

Yellow Fever at New York—Great Yacht Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The United States steamer Bienville, from St. Thomas, is lying at quarantine with eight cases of yellow fever on board. Fourteen others died on the passage.

The American yacht race for $90,000 will take place early in December. The yachts Fleet Wing, Vesta, and Henrietta are entered. They sail from Sandy Hook to the Isle of Wight.

Another Severe Storm—Fenian Indignation Meetings.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—A severe storm yesterday prostrated the lines east of Portland, Maine, consequently there is no Cable news. The storm in New York was very severe, flooding cellars and interfering with business.

Fenian indignation meetings continue to be held in Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago.

The Mexican Question.

The New York Times' Washington correspondent says, in a dispatch, a portion of which was telegraphed yesterday, that it is not designed to employ any force in aid of Juarez in Mexico, unless an emergency arises; but a strong column of troops will be placed on the Rio Grande and a fleet held in readiness, and it is hoped the attitude assumed by the United States will suffice to overturn the factions and lead to unanimous submission to the Constitutional Government. Our gain of territory, to be ceded by Juarez, will include the important seaport town of Guaymas, and the valuable portion of Sonora and Chihuahua. Already parties are laying plans to get grants of land for a railroad between New Orleans and Guaymas, and much interest is taken in the present phase of the Mexican question. The Mexican Legation yesterday received an official dispatch, dated Chihuahua, containing the following: "Juarez issued a decree on the 28th of September, concerning Englishmen and other foreigners in the Liberal Army. This amends the former, so that the Government now reserves to itself the right of fixing the terms upon which it will accept the services of such persons. A communication from Gen. Lazada is published in the official Juarez papers, showing that those persons who had originally joined Maximilian are thoroughly disgusted and now advise their countrymen to abandon the Imperial cause.

A special dispatch says Gen. Sherman has been designated to accompany Minister Campbell with discretionary powers, and will depart in a few days.

New Orleans dispatches say that Ortega left the city yesterday for Brazos, Santiago, disregarding Sheridan's orders. He insists on his constitutional claim to the Presidency. Sheridan goes to Texas immediately.

Vermont Ratifies the Constitutional Amendment.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The Vermont Legislature has ratified the Constitutional amendment.

The Pacific Railroad has been completed and accepted 270 miles west of Omaha, being 23 miles west of the one hundredth meridian.

From Central America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The steamer Arizona from Aspinwall Oct. 23d, has arrived. She brings one million and a quarter in treasure. A serious conflagration occurred at Aspinwall October 19th, destroying the U. S. Hotel and adjoining buildings. The flames were arrested at the Howard House through the exertions of Commodore Boggs and men belonging to troops to the ship of war De Soto. Field & Acra were the principal sufferers.

The steamer Independence bound up the Magnolia, exploded her boilers; no particulars. Honduras decided to remain neutral between Spain, Peru, and Chile, which action favors the allies by keeping ports open for privateering.

The French war steamer Talisman had arrived at Panama from Mexico on the 24th, with a large number of sick and wounded soldiers.

The Mexican Rumors Denied.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Republican of to-day semi-official organ, authoritatively denies the rumors concerning Mexican affairs, which it says were started in the interest of Mexican bondholders.

NEWS BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Consols 89¼; 5-20's 69¾.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 30.—Breadstuffs are firm.

In consequence of the bad condition of the telegraph lines through Newfoundland, it is proposed by the Anglo-American Telegraph Company to lay cables from Trinity or Placentia Bay to Halifax or Boston.

The Times to-day again editorially urges a reference of the Alabama claims to a joint commission as an act of policy, if not of justice.

PRAGUE, Oct. 27.—An attempt was made to shoot Emperor Francis Joseph as he was leaving the theatre this evening, but an Englishman seized the culprit before he could fire.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—King William has ordered the celebration of a solemn fete in Berlin on the 11th, for the restoration of peace.

European News by Steamer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Late foreign news contains the following items:

The London Times of the 15th says: The force of Bismarck might have been greater, but already we hear that the Parliament of Northern Germany will signalize its first sitting by proclaiming King William Emperor of Germany. Should such a scheme be carried into effect, the same assembly, to determine the relation between the central power and the dependent States, to limit the power of the princes, reduced to the condition of vassals, and perhaps to deliberate on restitution on the same condition of the fallen dynasties, to their throne. Herr Von Patow, Prussian Civil Governor, upon taking formal possession of the city of Frankfort in the name of William the First, pronounced an address, congratulating the citizens of Frankfort upon being incorporated with a State which was the first to propose and bring about the union of customs, currency, postal and telegraphic arrangements and the first to prepare in every way for the establishment of unity. He said Prussia had given proof by its organization, by admirable government and by its brave army and its people in arms, that it can protect and defend the rights of its inhabitants, and is entitled to lead off in the great work of reconstruction. Before us, he said, are portraits of Emperors of Germany during a period of more than one thousand years, and from this balcony were proclaimed elections often vastly important to Germany and the world. History unceasingly strides onward. New times and new exigencies appear. The old pictures must give place to new ones. You, gentlemen, you all hitherto free citizens of Frankfort have lost your independence, but you have won a fatherland in the highest sense of the word, a fatherland such as you never yet possessed. Take, then frankly, the hand which is extended to you. Be towards his majesty what you ought to be and with new Prussians utter for the first time the cry so near to old Prussian patriots "God save and bless the King" and repeat with me "long live his majesty William, King of Prussia."

Great preparations are making at Venice to celebrate the entry of the King of Italy and his Court. A Bucentaur has been constructed and magnificently ornamented. The King will be conducted to the Ducal Palace along the Gorsend road, traversing Venice through its greatest length. One of the most beautiful women in Venice, dressed in mourning will be presented to the King at the moment he comes in sight of the city and will offer the King the ax to strike off the chains of slavery. Then instantly the shackles and mournful vestments will disappear at the sound of salute of artillery and Venice personified as the Goddess of Liberty on which will be found the golden key of the gates of the city.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1st.—The jury in the Duane case at eleven o'clock returned with a verdict of "not guilty." The jury having returned a verdict of acquittal in the case of Charles P. Duane, on motion of the District Attorney a nolle prosequi was ordered entered in the case of his brother, John Duane, charged with being an accessary to the alleged murder. Both of the prisoners were at once discharged, and at 11½ o'clock P. M. the released brothers walked arm in arm out of the city prison.

A Guaymas letter dated October 19th confirms the statement of excesses which the Liberals committed after the capture of Tanairi and others. General Langbery surrendered as prisoner of war, but was shot from behind. His body was hung to a tree and bon-fires kindled under him.

The session of the First Presbyterian Church last evening received a dispatch from Frederick Billings, saying that Rev. Dr. Ells, of Brooklyn, had accepted the call extended to him a few weeks since, and would leave for San Francisco by January 1st or earlier.

Henry Umbsen, a grocer, has filed his petition in insolvency.

The amount of gold and silver coined at the mint for October was $2,332,000.

The will of Pauline Chaple, filed in the probate court, left all her property to her husband.

Johnson reiterates his declaration that amendments to the Constitution can not be legally proposed by Congress unless all the States are represented. If this be correct, the amendment abolishing slavery is not a part of the Constitution. The President some time ago said that he did not object particularly to the amendment now pending, except on the ground that the Southern States were not represented in Congress when it was passed by that body. He knows that if they had been represented the amendment could not have obtained the necessary two-thirds vote. The rebels would not have voted for it any more than they would have voted to propose to the States the amendment abolishing slavery.

The conservative chaps who undertook to follow Johnson and Henry J. Raymond out of the Union party are now mostly following Raymond out of the Copperhead den in which they found themselves landed shortly after the Philadelphia convention. The Buffalo Commercial comes out of the den using the following language: "We cannot be incorporated in the Democratic party, as it existed during the war; neither are we prepared to accept its materials and assist in re-building it. We are willing and anxious to co-operate earnestly and faithfully in the way and to the end agreed upon at Philadelphia, but in no other way and in no other end."

STATE ITEMS.

The river men inform us that the late rains have raised the upper Willamette so that the boats will have no further difficulty in making regular trips.

Mr. H. C. Huston, State Senator from Lane county has assumed the editorial management of the Salem Review. Huston is one of the most genial fellows we know among the Democratic confederates, and we can't wish him any bad luck except in politics. His salutatory is most decidedly Hustonic.

One day last week, a little boy of Mr. McCalley's of Salem fell from the swinging rings in the University gymnasium and broke his arm.

Mrs. Julia A. Oelson of Petaluma, California, is making enquiry through the papers, for the whereabouts of her father, Samuel Schaefer, who lived at one time near Salem, Oregon.

We publish, to-day, the "act to prohibit amalgamation and the intermarriage of races." It was passed for the benefit of Long Tom and sections of the State similarly situated and is all correct, except that it should have been entitled, "an act for the protection of Democratic virtue and to prevent the demoralization of the colored races."

The Unionist and the Dalles paper have both spoken in favor of a division of our State and Washington Territory. The division line is proposed to be made upon the summit of the Cascade mountains, giving Oregon all on the west and erecting all on the east into a new State. This matter was talked of considerably while the Legislature was in session and met with very little opposition.

Attorney General Stansberry has published an opinion to the effect that the President has the right to remove incumbents from office for political reasons and appoint others in their stead. In this Mr. Stansberry differs from several men of some note in our history. In the Federalist Mr. Madison says that arbitrary removals, without other cause than political difference of opinion, would constitute just ground for the impeachment of a President. Clay, Calhoun and Webster, in the great Senate debate above thirty years ago concurred in this opinion. These names are certainly equal to those of Mr. Johnson and his pliant and willing Attorney General.

Vermont is the sixth State to ratify the Constitutional amendment.

Use "Martha Washington" Hair Restorer.

EXCEEDINGLY EFFECTIVE.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are excellent lozenges for the relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are certainly exceedingly effective. We have known several instances in which troublesome Coughs have ceased very speedily after one or two Troches were taken.—Christian World, London, Eng.

LOVELY PEARLS.—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 89 First street, have recently added some beautiful SUN PEARLS to their collection, and continue as usual to lead all others for fine PHOTOGRAPHS, ALBUM PICTURES, CARTES DE VISITE, MELAINOTYPES, etc. The excellence of the work done at this GALLERY receives the daily approbation of the public. The weather makes no difference in taking a picture.

ANOTHER WAR THREATENED.—As the Fall trade begins, there seems to be no end to the competitors for low prices, and it is therefore to the interest of the public to know that Messrs. KOHN & FISHEL, at the ST. LOUIS STORE, NO. 111 FRONT STREET, sell the best quality of Custom-Made Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, &c., at such low prices as to astonish the oldest inhabitant.—"Competition is the life of trade," therefore call in and examine the stock and compare it with the prices elsewhere.

BUCHTEL'S PREMIUM GALLERY was represented at the State Fair, as it always has been, and did take the FIRST PREMIUM as usual. His work stands for itself and does not require bombastic puffs in self-written cards, to recommend itself to the public. All kinds of work in the art furnished in the very latest styles.

MARRIED:

At the residence of Wm. Patton, in Washington county, Oct. 28th, 1866, by M. Patton, J. P., Mr. James Gerrish, of Yamhill county, and Miss Mary Frances Patton, of Washington county.

On motion, Council adjourned.

FROM MONTANA.—Mr. O. A. Finlayson of Linn county arrived in this city last night, from Helena. He spent three months in that Territory, and had some very good opportunities for judging of its productiveness in [illegible] of the rank it is likely to assume among its sister Territories and States. He states that upon his arrival at Helena early in July, the city was estimated to contain not less than 12,000 people, including, of course, [illegible] of all [illegible] and idlers who were then considerably more than half of the whole number. According to his observation, the mines as a whole were not extensive though scattered over a wide region, nor very rich though [illegible] rich strikes have been made. Two men, for instance, took out of one claim this summer one ton of gold, while all other claims in the same gulch were making little or nothing. Other gulches so far as he observed—[illegible] considerably [illegible] sented very similar [illegible]; that is, they were exceedingly rich in [illegible] spots and rather barren everywhere else. The diggings, everywhere, were over populated, and Mr. F. [illegible] nearly seven-eighths of all the people of [illegible] are prospectors without paying claims, idlers, [illegible] who seek for a living at the world's [illegible]. During September a rush of passengers down [illegible] began, which would continue as long as the [illegible] open. The greater number were going down in small boats, in parties of twenty-five to forty. They could go thus to St. Louis at an expense of about $40, while the steamers charged $100 for passage. The steamers had mostly started down before the 1st of September, on account of the low stage of the river which was still falling when Mr. F. left. He says that the [illegible] part of the supplies for Montana, notwithstanding [illegible] to the contrary, are brought up the Missouri river from the Mississippi valley, and the greater [illegible] of people leaving the mines, go that way.

BASE BALL GAME.—There will be a return game played on [illegible] between the first nine of the Clackamas Base Ball Club of Oregon City and the Pioneer Base Ball Club of this city. The game will be played on the field [illegible] across the river. It will be remembered that the Pioneers came off victorious in the game at Oregon City. Now is the time for the Clackamas Club to meet the Pioneers and retrieve their former [illegible]. The boys at Oregon City are practicing regularly [illegible] are not playing at all. We would [illegible] the Pioneers cleaned out this time—it would [illegible] up to a proper sense of the necessity of practice. This game will close the playing for the season. [illegible] that next season will see the establishment of [illegible] clubs, and that Oregon will not be behind in [illegible] the national game. The Pioneers [illegible] taken the proper steps to be recognized among the Base Ball Clubs of the United States, as they have already chosen Robert H. Law as a delegate to represent them in the National Base Ball Convention, to be held at New York city in December next.

A NEW GOLD DISCOVERY.—Mr. Foster, of Umatilla, called on us last evening and gave us the cheering information that gold diggings were discovered last Friday within [illegible] and a half of Umatilla City—up the Umatilla river [illegible] from five to ten cents to the pan. The [illegible] is very fine, but no difficulty is experienced in saving [illegible] were already putting in sluices when Mr. Foster left, and he thinks it safe to say that not less than [illegible] will be in full operation before the close of this [illegible]. Water in abundance can be used from the Umatilla river without great expense. The locality where these new mines are found has been traveled over for years without discovery or suspicion of their existence.

REVIVAL.—The union noon-day prayer meetings still continue to be held in the basement of the Baptist Church. [illegible] we are glad to note the fact of their success. Much good will arise from these meetings, as all protestant [illegible] of creeds assemble together and labor for the good of the cause. Harmony and good fellowship is [illegible] which all seem to work. Much zeal is [illegible] and a deep feeling of religious interest seems to pervade the denomination. We may see here a religious [illegible] inaugurated like that which lately spread over the Eastern States, and which if once begun will include all denominations to active work which will spread throughout the coast.

FREIGHT AND TREASURE.—The following is the account of freight and treasure shipped by the steamer Oriflamme: 426 boxes fruit, 120 pkgs bacon, 193 bags [illegible], 4 bbls salmon, 9 bags flax seed, 8 bales wool, 24 [illegible], 1 coop poultry, 4485 qr sks flour, 75 pkgs mdse, 3 boxes, 1 jack.

TREASURE.

Wells, Fargo & Co.	$118,000
Ladd & Tilton	40,000
[illegible] Bros.	4,000
Total	$162,000

REMOVAL.—Dr. Wm. Kohler, finding his quarters on [illegible] street too small for his enlarged laboratory and increasing business, has removed his office and residence to [illegible] on Yamhill street, two doors from Front. See his advertisement this morning.

IMPORTED PRODUCE.—The steamer Senator brought last evening 60 tons flour which she discharged on board the steamer Pacific—3000 qr sks were from the Imperial Mills, and 1440 from the Standard Mills. She also brought 50 boxes apples.

[illegible]—The schooner Crosby sailed from Springville yesterday morning for Seattle. She takes 200 bbls flour and 2000 bushels wheat.

[illegible]—The steamer Montana sailed from San Francisco yesterday, for Portland, and may be expected here [illegible].

THE PACIFIC.—Our telegraph report announces that the Pacific will sail to-day for Portland.

PASSENGERS PER ORIFLAMME.—The following passengers sailed on the Oriflamme last evening for San Francisco: C A Phelps, G H Luther, C C Mitchell, W S Caldwell, B D Snelling, W T Shamahorn, B Lewis, S Waterman, R S Endley, A J Barth, wife and two children, Mrs C N Humiston, Mrs W S Shanahan, Miss Heath, Miss Laura Bell, Mrs L Heath, Lucien Heath and three sons, Miss M Plomandon, Miss A Luelling, Mrs E A Lathrop and child, E M Plomandon, D C Pearson, Miss S Pearson, Mrs Hill, Mrs Lucier, Mrs F A Dyer and child, Mr D C Pearson, Miss D C Pearson, P J Ackerman, F Martin, F M Martin, C R Mitchell, W P Plimmer, G D Stafford, George Henfield, S Levinshon, B Herdan, M B Bonney, J H Kelly, H L Marling, D P Sanders, Dr D W Mitchell and wife, M C Nye and wife, Capt W J Sanborn, U S A, and wife, R P Shug, D Servingham, E A Lathrop, Mrs M Larrabee, Mrs P S Dujant and daughter, S Culmery, T G Anderson, J Fleluart, M R Willey, H Fish, W B Robinson, Miss Mary Ann Wagner, Miss Price, Mrs W W Watson, E C Williams and wife, J R Miller and wife, P S McCarthy and wife, B S Kiff, W H Watkinds, Rev St Michael Trackler, W C Vincent, Prof Barber, F W Pain, E R Hutchinson, R M Moshira, James Stone, Mrs E R Hutchinson, Mrs R M Moshira, Mr James, Mrs Clark, Miss S White, S Bors and wife, P Kopplam and wife, R Seller, R H Brown, H Fifield, H Ingram, James Canady, E Ray, A F Forthaber, O Hesse, John Kelso, W R Anderson, D C Howard, Mrs W R Anderson, Mrs D C Howard, William England, Fred Washington, James Matthews, E L Young, J Rice, E F Cronin, W Howard, Jas Howard, Jos Guire, P M Denny, J L Rodgers, W Skidmore, G T Acton, J Haley, Antoine Bonean, R Rivers, J Kent, J A Daly, H Bush, S James, P Tillman, C B Hurling, F A Dyer, H N Nice, P C Gibson, S D Gibson, Wm Livermore, Andrew Kelly, J Durbin, Dr D S Baker, B J Gardiner, G W Bryers, W S Butler, P Burnett, P Grennills, J O Shelton, J Rhoades, D Rhoades, J A Shelton, W Waldo, L Levi, J Rosenstern, R Gutries, J Harris, W G West (W F & Co's messenger), and 140 others.

TWO MEN MISSING.—Day before yesterday two men—one of them named Fulford, from West Canada, the other name not learned—started from C. W. Collins' wood yard on the Columbia, in a canoe to go to some point up the river, since which time they have not been seen or heard from, and it is feared they are drowned. A little girl of Mr. Collins' is confident she saw the canoe float past, some time after the men started. Search for them thus far only develops the fact that at some distance above the wood-yard the men had landed, pulled the canoe on the beach and one of them had written his name in the sand.

A FAMILY TURNED OUT.—Dr. Chapman received yesterday, a small case containing a whole family of infantile turtles, blasted out of the rocks at Oswego, and sent down by Mr. Steele. Seven of them, about as wide as a half dollar, were able to be about and were quite lively, while two others, less favored by their nurse, (supposing them to have had one,) were still in the shell, though evidently intending to come out as soon as they could see an opening. The Doctor is kindly providing for the orphans, such little delicacies as turtles of tender age are supposed to relish.

CLOTHING THIEF.—During Wednesday night while Mr. E. J. Jeffries was working at his brick kiln in the rear of the city, a burglarious thief entered his house, and stole his trunk, took it out to the Canyon and emptied it of about one hundred dollars worth of clothing. The trunk was found yesterday. A few days since the house of a Mr. Kenedy, some distance out of town was entered and robbed in a similar manner.

NEW ALMANAC.—We find upon our table McCormick's Almanac for the year 1867. It is well and neatly gotten up, and contains 44 pages of useful and interesting matter pertaining to the growth, wealth and resources of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. This is the thirteenth year of its publication. We have no doubt it will meet with good sale.

EXAMINATION OF THE RIVER CHANNEL.—Lieut. Huer of the engineer corps and Col. McCraken, chairman of the City Council's committee on river improvements, will go down this morning on the Cutch for the purpose of examining the Willamette river, as per letter of instructions to Lieut. Huer, from the senior engineer officer in the Pacific Division.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The only case in this court yesterday was that of Richard Pomfret—d. d.—taken up from the sidewalk of Front street, fined $5 and costs and being destitute of that or any other sum was sent to jail for two days.

AUCTION SALE.—Kilbourn will sell to-day some valuable property on Washington street, as well as his usual sale of furniture, &c. On Monday next he will be the auctioneer in the administrator's sale of the Caruthers' estate.

What Experienced Mill Men think of the Portable Steam Saw Mills built by the Oregon Iron Works!

PORTLAND, Oct. 18th, 1866.

To the OREGON IRON WORKS:

Gentlemen:—The Portable Steam Saw Mill which we purchased of you last spring for Pen d'Oreille Lake, has been in operation during the past season, and has more than met our expectations in its performance. With three men, we turn out from three to four thousand feet, and with five men, five thousand feet per day of ten hours; and we take pleasure in recommending these mills as the most SUBSTANTIAL, DESIRABLE AND PERFECT MILLS IN USE, and especially adapted to the wants of this country, on account of their compact form, ease of transportation and the facility with which they can be set up and put in operation. Although subjected to the most severe tests, no repairs have been required.

CIRCULAR
To the Officers and Soldiers Oregon Volunteers.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
SALEM, Oct. 23, 1866.

BY RECENT ACTS OF CONGRESS ALL OFFICERS of the Volunteer Service who were in Commission March 3d, 1865, and subsequently mustered out after April 9th, 1865, are entitled to three months extra pay proper.

Enlisted men are entitled to additional bounty in certain cases, by Acts of Congress of July 28th, 1866, and the following rules and regulations, together with the form of application adopted by the War Department, are published for the guidance and benefit of all concerned:

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES, UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, September 16, 1866.

1. All applications shall be filed within the period of six months, from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made shall be classified by regiments, battalions, or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2. No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed; and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment, or other independent organization, shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5. A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor, of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated.

7. Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8. Soldiers enlisted for "three years or during the war," who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9. The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non-residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received "in the line of duty," who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge, of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July, 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which those heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion on the point whether the rules and regulations as within amended are in conformity with law.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

September 14, 1866.

I have examined these amended regulations, and am of opinion they are in conformity with law.

HENRY STANBERY,
Attorney General.

September 15, 1866.

The foregoing rules and regulations are published for the information and guidance of all concerned.

By order of the Secretary of War.

E. D. TOWNSEND,

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Underneath the growing grass,
Underneath the living flowers,
Deeper than the sound of showers:
There we shall not count the hours
By the shadows as they pass.

Youth and health will be but vain,
Beauty reckoned of no worth:
There a very little girth
Can hold round what once the earth
Seemed too narrow to contain.

The Fate of Mexico

The London Times of September 13th at the close of a leader rehearsing the recent political history of Mexico, and speaking rather contemptuously of Maximilian's fiasco has the following

It would be of no great advantage under present circumstances to investigate the history of the failure. All the conditions of the enterprise turned out more or less unfavorably to the design of Napoleon III although the Prince whom he had selected for the new throne proved by common consent, a Sovereign of excellent intent and more than average capacity. But a sovereign however wise or however worthy, must have some support for his government, especially in a disorganized country and yet, as events showed there was no kind of support to be procured in Mexico, and no sufficient support to be contributed from without. It was thought, and we shared the impression that if there were such things as a public and a public opinion in Mexico they would be attracted to a Prince who offered, at any rate government instead of anarchy, and law instead of disorder. But either there were not such things or they were repelled by a foreign dynasty and Maximilian could reckon for active support on the French garrison only. It happened, too, that the French people, though so addicted to military enterprise in general, conceived a strong aversion to the expedition. The troops themselves disliked the service and their countrymen at home hardly wished for their success if it was to involve the continuance of the unpopular protectorate. Then the United States, though long distracted by their own war, regarded the adventure from the outset with a notorious jealousy, which was sure to pass ultimately into more active opposition, and which presently took the form of menacing protests. The American Government, in fact, forbade at last the despatch of fresh European forces to American territory, though so unpromising as well as unpopular had the enterprise gradually become that the views taken at Washington did but coincide with the resolutions already adopted in Paris. In the meantime the small French garrison, irresistible in a fair field, but powerless in so prodigious an extent of territory, could do little more than protect the capital and highroads to the coast the old factions, at one time almost driven across the border, recovered strength and daring, and as events brought them greater and greater encouragement, they have closed round the Emperor and his guards on every side. And this while, too, the sinews of war and Government have been wanting. The French could not be expected to find the revenue for an American Empire, and the Empire could find none for itself. As with more ancient monarchies, the final catastrophe is said to be financial. The Emperor must quit Mexico if for no other reason, because he cannot steal like his predecessors, and because otherwise he cannot get a dollar to live upon.

There was possibly a miscalculation at the bottom of the enterprise itself, but as regards the conduct of it we know of but one fault with which the Emperor Napoleon can be fairly charged. When he occupied the capital and assumed the Government of Mexico, he did so not with an impartial condemnation of the old factions, but with a preference to one of them. He closed with the party opposed to Juarez, which had, at least the disadvantage in title and pretensions, and was probably—if precedence was possible between such candidates—the more worthless faction of the two. Juarez had offered terms, but they were refused, and so, driven like more respectable patriots into exile, he at last organized a successful resistance to the invader. If he has acquired in the process any such principles as befit a Constitutional ruler, or any such power as is necessary to sustain a Government, we may see an independent Mexico in the list of civilized States, but we are not yet acquainted with any facts which would induce a bid of in such an event, and it is far more probable that an immediate return of confusion and another period of murderous anarchy will lead to the disappearance of the country in the United States. With that result Europe will have no disposition to quarrel.

The "Frost Flower" of Russia.—A Boston journal describes an extraordinary "frost flower" of Russia, which has been produced, it is said, in Boston, in a temperature of artificial cold. This wonderful plant, or rather flower, is found only on the northern boundaries of Siberia, where the snow is eternal. It was discovered in 1863 by Count Swinoskoff, the eminent Russian botanist, who was ennobled by the Czar for his discovery. Bursting from the frozen snow on the first day of the year, it grows to the height of three feet, flowers on the third day, remains in flower for twenty four hours, and then dissolves itself into its original element—stem, leaves, and flower being of the finest snow. The stalk is about one inch in diameter, the leaves—three in number—in the broadest parts are one inch and a half in width, and are covered with infinitessimal cones of snow; they grow only on one side of the stalk, to the north, curving gracefully in the same direction. The flower, when fully expanded, is in shape a perfect star, the petals are three inches in length, half an inch wide in the broadest parts, and tapering sharply to a point. These are also interlaced one with the other in a beautiful manner, forming the most delicate basket of frost-work that the eye ever beheld; for truly this is frost work the most wonderful. The anthers are five in number, and on the third day after the birth of the "flower of snow" are to be seen on the extremities thereof, trembling and glittering like diamonds, the seeds of this wonderful flower, about as large as a pin's head. The old botanist says, when first he beheld this flower, "I was dumb with astonishment, filled with wonderment, which gave way to joy the most ecstatic on beholding this wonderful work of nature, this remarkable phenomenon of snow—to see this flower springing from the snowy desert, born of its own composite atoms. I touched the stem of one lightly, but it fell at my touch, and a morsel of snow only remained in my hand." Gathering some of the flowers in snow, in order to preserve the little diamond like seeds, he hied to St Petersburgh with, to him, the greatest prize of his lifetime. All through the year they were kept in snow, and on the first day of the year following, the Court of St. Petersburgh were delighted with the bursting forth of the wonderful "frost flower." Our friends in Boston succeeded in obtaining several of the seeds, and all through the summer and autumn they have been imbedded in snow, brought at great expense from the White Mountains and the coast of Labrador, and they now have the most unbounded satisfaction and pleasure of announcing that all signs are favorable to the realization of their fondest hopes, the production of the "flower of snow." The snow and ice are in a large glass refrigerator, with the thermometer forty five degrees below zero, and the solid bed of snow has already begun to show little fissures and a slight bulging in the center, unmistaken evidences of the forthcoming of the phenomenon.

Crops in Montana.—The Montana Gazette says about three hundred thousand bushels of wheat have been raised in that Territory this season, which is of a superior quality. Considerable oats and barley have also been raised, which command a good price and ready sale. Potatoes are selling at five cents a pound, and hay at thirty dollars a ton. Very little farming has been done in the Territory until the past season.

A Cholera Farm.—On the Trichet farm, in Stonelick township, Clermont county Ohio, within a few days past, says the St Louis Democrat of the 3d instant four persons named Shumard died of cholera. On the same farm in 1836 three persons died of the same disease, and four persons in 1849, and then as now, there were no other cases in the vicinity.

President Johnson calls the loyal men who voted for him in 1864, and who are still opposed to rebels ruling the nation "Northern traitors." The rebels applied the same epithet to loyal men in the South during the rebellion. This shows how prompt he has been to adopt their nomenclature.

General Grant's pay is $18 678 per year and Lieutenant General Sherman's $13 518. Each is allowed fifty horses. A Major General gets $5 800 per year, and is allowed five horses. The pay of a Brigadier is $3 040 50.

Mr Baldwin who died in Philadelphia lately, built the first model locomotive ever constructed in this country about the year 1820 and at the time of his death had over 1 000 men employed in his locomotive works.

Pretty Even.—Over 2 000 000 letters and 2 200 000 newspapers came to the United States from Great Britain in 1865 and 2 300 000 letters and 2 400,000 newspapers went hence to Great Britain, in the same time.

Divorce in High Life.—It is said in Providence, Rhode Island that Mrs Kate Sprague daughter of Chief Justice Chase and wife of Senator Sprague, is about to apply for a divorce.

Recall of the French Troops from Rome—Napoleon's Great Failure

[From the London Times September ...th]

The day brings round the second anniversary of that Paris Convention between France and Italy by the terms of which the Emperor Napoleon engaged to withdraw his troops from Rome. A considerable part of the Imperial garrison has already left that city and it is understood that the evacuation will be complete by the 9th of December. Meanwhile the so called France-Antibes Legion 1,205 men strong, was to embark last Thursday at Antibes for Civita Vecchia on board the French steamer [illegible]. On Saturday last General D'Aurelle the officer in command of the Ninth French Military Division delivered the Legion into the hands of the Pontifical Commissioners General De Courten and M Massimi, the Military Superintendent. There was a somewhat imposing ceremony at Antibes a breakfast and an interview of the Legion in full uniform which, as we are told presented a most magnificent sight. The words addressed to the corps by General D'Aurelle were sufficiently significant. He reminded them that although they were henceforth to serve under other colors they would not cease to be French soldiers and they would under all circumstances have to uphold the honor of the French name of which they would soon be the only representatives at Rome. It is asserted, in fact that the Antibes Legion will be the only foreign force allowed for the defense of the Vatican after the 9th of December. We hear in the meantime that the Legion will not for the present proceed from Civita Vecchia direct to Rome, as the General in command of the garrison objects to his French troops being brought into contact with these new Pope's soldiers. The Legion will therefore be sent to Viterbo in spite of a strong remonstrance by the municipal authorities of the town who warned the Papal Government of the danger of collisions between their people and these unwelcome foreign guests. The Minister for Arms, General Kanzler, had gone to Viterbo, with a view to reconcile those citizens to the inevitable arrangement.

* * * * *

After fully eighteen years of the most painful experience the Emperor Napoleon must be aware that he leaves at this day the Roman question precisely on the same terms as it was when he took it up in 1849. The Pope had at that juncture been left at the mercy of his subjects and political passions had risen so high around the Vatican that an expedition to Rome meant to screen the Pope from personal outrage was justified in the opinion of all reasonable. Anything beyond personal protection and a safe retreat from the midst of his revolutionized subjects could not and should not have been extended to the Pope. All effort to prop up or reform his Government were made in vain and their utter futility is now emphatically acknowledged. The Pope will soon be once more in the hands of his subjects and, were they determined to be rid of him it is doubtful whether even the 1,205 hirelings from Antibes could do no more for their new sovereign than favor his second flight. The Pope can be a sovereign on other terms than those of the boundless protection of a foreign power, and we do not see how this protection can ever be found compatible with his pretensions as a self standing potentate. We hear that "the supreme spiritual office of the Head of the Church requires for its free and full exercise the perfect independence of his person," that "the independence of his person can not be secured without total exemption from from all temporal superiors," that "this exemption requires a sphere of his own," but for all that, we are not convinced either that Papal sovereignty and sovereignty in Rome is a necessity, or that such a sovereignty fulfills the condition of securing the personal independence of the Pontiff or the free exercise of his office. Could it even be proved that Providence had set apart Rome and her territory as the residence of the Head of the Church, and that the act of Constantine or Charlemagne or the Countess Matilda laid the foundation of Papal dominion in the Roman State, all the donations in the world could not, in our modern views of such matters give the Pope a right over more than the mere lands. The Romans cannot be held in fee simple by any man. The titles of a sovereign over his subjects in our days must rest either on a mutual compact of good will and loyalty, or on force—force drawn from the people against itself, or borrowed from foreign protection. Whatever zealous Catholics hold to the contrary, the Pontiffs have no better right to sovereignty than the Stuarts had in England in 1688, or the Bourbons in France in 1830. The same revolution which gave the people of Parma and Modena the means of ridding themselves of the yoke of their Dukes enabled those of Bologna, Ravenna, Ancona and Perugia, to drive the Papal Legate from their walls, and European diplomacy, by its recognition of the kingdom of Italy, sanctioned as much the curtailment of a Papal sovereignty as the overthrow of Ducal tyranny. Can Archbishop Manning, or any man in the world draw a distinction between the Romagnese and the Romans? Are not the Romans men? Why should they, against their consent, in spite of the protest they have entered against their fate for a thousand years, be sacrificed to the exigencies of a fancied "independence" of a fictitious "exemption" of the Head of the Church from all temporal superiors? It is his temporal sovereignty and nothing else that makes the Pope's position precarious and dependant on the good pleasure now of an Austrian, now of a French monarch, now of a French military commandant, now of a mere civil Commissioner, and presently of the Chief of the Antibes mercenaries. However true it may be that Emperors and Countesses have given the soil of Rome to the Pope, it is equally undeniable that Providence has not given him the heart of the Romans. There is, we firmly believe, no instance in the world of another community that has lasted so long as the Papal Government with so strong and deep-rooted and unconquerable an antipathy on the part of the subjects. We do not pretend to say that the Romans are not very much to blame for their stiffnecked opposition to what ought to be the most gentle and provident, the most paternal, the holiest of all earthly rules. But so it is, they will have none of it. There is no reasoning with them on the subject. If Archbishop Manning or any other Catholic entertains any doubt about the matter, the experiment may and will soon be tried for the hundredth time. Let the French withdraw and let it be seen how long even the 1,205 Antibes bayonets, which have no business there, will continue to force the Pope on the Romans.

A Reign of Terror in Canada.—There is a reign of terror in Canada in view of the anticipated raid of the Fenians. Attorney General McDonald has issued a circular directing the seizure of arms in the possession of suspected parties and the arrest of all persons travelers or residents, who may be believed to have any connection with the Fenian order. Under the habeas corpus act such persons may be thrown into prison and held there without hope of escape or judicial review of their cases. With such a state of things existing in Canada, it is not safe for Americans to visit the Provinces.

The situation in Canada, as we gather from the press and conversation with Canadians, is frightful. All branches of business are prostrated, bank suspensions are experienced and dreaded, dwellings are emptied and stores closed by emigration to the United States, the able-bodied men are serving in the militia at the front. everything is unsettled and wears a gloomy aspect. Under the heavy armament caused by the Fenian movement, taxes are swelling to enormous proportions. A gentleman from Brighton informed us a few days since that the current taxes for the year would reach $1 on £1. Under all this there is growing a wide spread desire for annexation to the United States as the only means of checking the Fenians and obtaining a road to stable government and prosperity.—Rochester (N Y) Tribune

Caught with a "Living Widder."—The elder Mr Weller was caught in a railroad car with a widow. Here is his account of it.

"It was on the rail," said Mr Weller, with strong emphasis, "I was a goin down to Brighton by the rail and I was locked up in a close carriage with a living widder. Alone we was, the widder and me was alone, and I believe it was because we was alone and there was no clergyman in the conveyance that ere widder didn't marry me afore we reached the half way station. When I think how she began a screaming as we was going under tunnels in the dark—how she kept on fainting ketching hold of me—and how I tried to burst open the door as was tight locked and perwented all escape. Ah! it was a awful thing—most awful."

The German.—The Baltimore Commercial very truthfully remarks that there is around the earth a girdle of German influence and German culture. Into whatever country or clime the Germans go, they carry with them the habits pastimes and traditions of Fatherland to which they cling with unyielding tenacity. Everywhere they are welcomed and everywhere they impress much of their national character upon the people with whom they take up their abode. In this country they largely influence our political as well as our social life. Generally industrious, law abiding and intelligent, they are valuable accessions to any land.

A Paris leter says the health of the Imperial Prince is not so firm as could be wished. He is singularly delicate and his complexion gives alarm to those who remember his aunt died of consumption.

Life too Short for Strife.—Charles Dickens relates the following of Douglas Jerrold:

"Of his generosity I had a proof within these two or three years, which it saddens me to think of now. There had been estrangement between us—not on any personal subject and not involving any angry words—and a good many months had passed without my ever seeing him in the street, when it fell out that we dined each in his own separate party, in the Stranger's Room of the Club. Our chairs were almost back to back and I took mine after he was seated at dinner (I am sorry to remember) and I did not look that way. Before we had sat long he openly wheeled his chair around, stretched out both hands in an engaging manner, and said aloud, with a bright and loving face that I can see as I write to you 'Let us be friends again.' A life is not long enough for this!"

Jerrold was not a Christian but this conduct in this case was worthy of the Chistian character. On a dying bed how insignificant will appear many things about which we contend in bitterness and wrath? Life is short its inevitable sorrows so many, its responsibilities so vast and solemn that there is, indeed no time to spare in bruising and mangling one another. Let not the sun go down on your wrath. Never close your eyes to sleep with a heart angry towards your brother and fellow sufferer. See him and be reconciled to him if you can. If you cannot see him write to him. If he is a true man and a Christian he will listen. If he is not, you will have done right and your soul will be bright with the sunshine of Heaven."

Ben Butler has been giving A Johnson a little advice. In a speech lately delivered at Cleveland, he said:

"But Mr President remember that this Congress was elected at the same hour at the same ballot boxes in the same States only, by the same people and by them alone that elected you Vice President. Now, if this Congress is only a rump of a Congress does it not follow with the most inexorable logic that you are but a rump of a President? And if the Legislative branch is hanging on the verge of the Government, is not the Executive in like manner hanging on the same verge—so near, indeed as to tempt us to wish he might fall over."

Strange, but True.—The New York Sunday Times (Copperhead) says:

It is a singular fact that many Irish Americans, well known for their hostility in this city for years to all anti Democratic organizations have been carried away sufficiently of late by the Fenian feeling to go over to the support of the radicals. The journals that have been vituperating them so long as "not half as good as the negroes" are now their political co laborers.

Pretty Name.—Diminutive appellations says the Dubuque Times are appropriate for children but are out of place for adults. Benny is a pretty name for a little urchin but when he becomes a man we give him the full cognomen of Benjamin. So in the early stages of the rebellion we called the rebels "Johnnies"; now we call them "Johnson men."

Railways.—The London Times says: The total earnings of railways in the United Kingdom amount to a good £40 000 000 a year and if we allow even fifty per cent for working expenses there will remain £20 000 000 to represent profits.

The wonderful operation of the infusion of blood from the veins of a healthy person into a sickly one has just been performed at Vienna with complete success. The healthy person operated upon was the husband the sickly the wife.

The Pittsburg Convention.—The New York Herald calls this Convention the "Blue Mass." A cotemporary says it will undoubtedly put the nation's liver in good condition and will clean out all such impurities as Copperheadism.

M. Thiers is certainly now entitled to call himself a prophet. He has realized almost to the letter what he predicted in the Corps Legislatif as lately as May last when in the course of the debate on the address he said "If Prussia shall be successful in the coming war I do not say that it will at once become mistress of fifty millions of German subjects. Oh no she has but fourteen millions now and from fourteen to fifty is too large a journey to be accomplished without some rest. [Laughter.] But it is certain that Prussia will annex most of the Northern German States and will exercise her influence over the others. [Several voices—That's it! that's it!] She will then have one part of Germany under her direct authority and the other part under her indirect authority and under this new order of things Austria will be a protected power. And then allow me to tell you there will be accomplished a grand phenomenon which events have been tending to for the last century. We shall see the German Empire revive—that empire of Charles V the seat of which was formerly at Vienna and which will now be at Berlin—an empire which will close up to our frontiers and to complete the analogy this empire of Charles V instead of being supported by Spain as in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries will be supported by Italy. [Great sensation.]—Paris Correspondence London News

A Nobleman Struck by a New Idea.—Lord Grosvenor is the eldest son of the Marquis of Westminster whose fortune is enormous and said to produce the immense income of £500 000 per annum. He is highly intelligent, and the variety and depth of his information would be considered great even for a commoner. He has traveled extensively in all parts of the world and it is not long since he returned from an extensive tour in the United States. While at the West he was one day waiting at a country station for a tardy train, when one of the farmers of the neighborhood entered into conversation with him.

"Bin about these parts considerable, stranger?" "Yes, for some length of time." "Like em pretty well eh?" "Yes, pretty well." "How long yer bin here?" "A few weeks." "What's yer business?" "I have no business." "What yer traveling for then?" "Only for my own pleasure." "Don't yer do any business?" "No." "How do yer get yer livin then?" "It isn't necessary for me to work for my support. My father is a man of property, and gives me an allowance sufficient for my wants." "But spose the old man should die?" "In that case I dare say he'd leave me enough to live upon." "But s'pose he should bust up?" Here the conversation ended, and Lord Grosvenor walked away, evidently struck by a new idea.

An Old French Soldier.—Pere Garet who has a wooden leg has long resided at the Ternes on the suburbs of Paris. For economical reasons the old soldier was in the habit of taking his meals at a cabaret just outside the walls, and was well known to the officers of the customs who collect the octroi duties. They were accustomed to see him pass outside the gates three times a day and often chatted with him about the battles he had witnessed in the time of the First Napoleon. Lately the old fellow was knocked down by a carriage while hobbling through the gate. He was picked up in a pool of what appeared to be blood, but afterwards was found to be wine issuing from his wooden leg, in which he had in times gone by smuggled in many hogsheads.

Eastern Crops and Markets.—The New York Herald of September 28th says:

From all the evidences it appears that the damage to the crops by the late floods in the West has been very general but the amount of grain destroyed will not be more than the great excess of the corn crop over those of the former years. The grain crop of 1866 bade fair before the late rains to be of immense value, and despite of the late destruction we shall have more than an average crop. Our European information states that the grain crops there have been comparatively failures. This fact and that of the late wars in Europe will create an immense demand for our grain and our farmers may look forward to a brisk demand and high prices.

A Washington special of Oct 1st says: A movement made in some of the Northern papers, within a day or two, to represent the President as favoring some kind of Constitutional amendment as a basis of restoration, has elicited some attention here, but was, to-day, most emphatically denied by gentlemen who sought and obtained interviews with Mr Johnson. He distinctly stated that every State, ought to be represented in Congress before any amendment to the Constitution could constitutionally pass Congress.

Death of Miss Cummins.—Miss Mary S Cummins, daughter of Judge Cummins, died recently. Her illness has been of long continuance, and for several weeks she has waited calmly for the messenger. Her literary career commenced in 1853, when the Lamplighter was published, and within eight weeks, so great was its popularity, over forty thousand copies were sold and as it has passed through several editions, both in this country and England, its sale has probably exceeded one hundred thousand copies.

Not Bad.—Alexander C Wilson says in the Newburg (N Y) Times that "when John Morrissey goes to Washington he will play Pharaoh to the President's Moses."

Settled Down.—General Rosecrans, the hero of Murfreesboro, has finally settled down as an honest quartz miner at Jamestown, Tuolumne county.

SOMETHING NEW!

THE NEW LIGHT!
DANFORD'S
Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT OF SOME SORT IS A UNIversal necessity. A Safe Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance the chimney is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided. It is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps. It is the cheapest artificial light that can be used yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ⅙ cent per hour or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper light ten hours for a cent. It is free from smoke can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Dufrene, corner of Morrison and First streets.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea Gleet Stricture Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies so that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing themselves as curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse, the solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs confusion of ideas, blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society loss of memory, flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails in effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will forfeit Five Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give each patient a written instrument, binding him to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars sent in a registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J F GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 1957. Consultations FREE.
